HARD TIMES MADE EASY.

Pertinent Pointers for Prudent People—A Question of Dollars and Cents.

There are many people in Buffalo and vicinity who are looking with dread for the advent of winter, simply because they cannot see their way clearly to sparing the money wherewith to purchase for themselves and little ones the warm apparel which the cold weather necessitates. Mr. Charles Fox, the assignee of the big wholesale house which recently failed, is in position to surrender to the people a quarter million dollars' worth of Men's and Boys' Clothing, Hats, Caps, Underwear, Furnishing Goods and Men's, Women's and Children's Boots, Shoes, Slippers, Rubbers, etc., at 35 cents on the dollar. The court has ordered this great stock turned into money forthwith, in order to pay the creditors, and the goods are being slaughtered in the most fearful manner. It is heartbreaking to see so fine a stock ruthlessly sacrificed, but it is a case of necessity, not of choice, and for the next 15 days the finest Suits, Overcoats, Trousers, Underwear, Hats, Caps, and hundreds of other articles for men's or boys' wear, besides $25,000 worth of Boots, Shoes, Slippers, Rubbers, etc., for women, men and children, will be sold at such prices as they will bring. This sale is imperative, and everything must go. Cut out the price-list and bring it with you.

CLOTHING DEPARTMENT.

Men's heavy winter suits, $2.21, worth $7.00; men's durable winter suits, $2.83, worth $9.00; men's excellent quality suits, $4.27, worth $12.00; men's nice cheviot suits, $3.75, worth $14.00; men's corkscrew worsted suits, $5.82, worth $18.00; men's imported Clay worsted suits, $7.50, worth $18.50; men's finest dress suits, $5.65, worth $22.00; men's extra fine dress suits, $10.47, worth $28.00; men's heavy winter overcoats, $1.65, worth $4.50; men's heavy chinchilla overcoats, $2.25, worth $6.00; men's fine beaver overcoats, $6.82, worth $14.50; men's fine Kersey overcoats, $7.98, worth $19.00; men's heavy storm ulsters, $2.10, worth $6.00; men's heavy durable ulsters, $3.87, worth $10.00; men's heavy chinchilla ulsters, $4.75, worth $14.00; men's heavy frieze ulsters, $5.45, worth $15.00; men's heavy Elysian ulsters, $5.85, worth $15.00; boys' heavy suits, 80 cents, worth $2.50; boys' heavy durable suits, $1.37, worth $3.75; boys' heavy cassimere suits, $1.45, worth $3.50; boys' heavy overcoats, 95 cents, worth $4.50; boys' heavy cape overcoats, $1.25, worth $4.00; boys' heavy pants, 14 cents, worth 50 cents; boys' nice pants, 35 cents, worth $1.25.

BOOT AND SHOE DEPARTMENT.

$6,000 pairs children's shoes, from 15 cents to 60 cents, worth 75 cents to $1.25; 1,200 cases men's, women's and children's rubbers at less than factory prices; 400 cases men's heavy tap sole shoes, 80 cents, worth $1.75; 126 cases men's congress and lace shoes, $1.15, worth $3.00; 60 cases men's fine calf congress or lace shoes, $1.40, worth $3.75; 110 cases men's French calf hand sewed shoes, $2.25, worth $6.00; 240 cases ladies' dongola button shoes, 95 cents, worth $2.25; 600 cases ladies' fine dongola button or lace shoes, $1.45, worth $3.50; 112 cases ladies' fine French kid button or lace shoes, $1.87, worth $5.00; 1,000 pairs ladies' house or dress slippers, 25 cents to $1.15, worth $1.00 to $2.50; 2,000 pairs men's holiday embroidered slippers, 45 cents to $1.07, worth $1.00 to $3.00; hundreds of sample pairs of men's and women's shoes and slippers almost given away.

HAT AND CAP DEPARTMENT.

WHAT DREAMS MAY COME.

Haunting me ever, there comes and goes
A line from an old song's tender close,
Its burden the sweetest—the saddest, too,
For the altered lives it has echoed through—
"Love, had you loved me!" The words are few,
But through them an infinite passion flows.

"Love, had you loved me!" Perhaps the key
To many a grief this thought may be;
To a sorrow that stirs at the magic strain
And steps from its prison, barred in vain,
To crush with the old, relentless pain
The heart that has guarded it faithfully.

Ah, fondest and truest, whose brown eyes shine
With the tenderest lovelight, I am thine
Forever, thou heart of my heart, and yet
The breath of an April violet
Wakens a longing, a deep regret
For eyes as blue, that were never mine.

"Love, had you loved me!" what life would be
Attuned to that passionate melody!
Sad hearts unblest, that must still repine
For the draft untasted of love's rich wine;
Bitter the memories that haunt this line
Of "Love, had you loved me!" so mournfully.
—Ella M. Sexton.

A MAN OF PREY.

Toward Singapore, out of the sunset glare, a long, slashing schooner came spanking in before the southwest monsoon at a pace which procured for her from prahu, lorcha and sampang an uncommonly wide berth. Off Pulo Panjan, however, the stranger put his helm down, got in his square canvas and went away, close hauled, west by north along the coast.

"See that, Sam?" and Proddy of Proddy & Newman let his cheroot go out as he gaped after the flying schooner. Proddy had been over to Bintang, and Sam was skipper of his little steam yacht.

"Aye, sir, I see that, and I see the reason of it, too," and Sam pointed to a streaming wisp of yellow at the top of a headless palm on Panjan point. "Schooner hauled her wind the instant that bit o' bunting went aloft."

"Private signal, eh? And quarantine colors, too! Devilish odd! Don't concern us, though!" and Proddy, the pot bellied, lit another Manila.

Over the domestic establishment of Simon Proddy, Esq., presided a lady who rejoiced in a stearine complexion, a velvety eye and hair for length and blackness like unto a horse's tail, but who, despite French habiliments and an English education, was a China woman pure and simple.

"A wonderful woman, sir!" would Proddy say. "Worth any half a dozen white women I ever knew! And the best of it is that her sisters and her cousins and her aunts are God knows where! Couldn't quite stand them, you know!"

But, all unknown to Proddy, his brevet wife possessed a father—a sophisticated old sinner, who dabbled with dubious irons in mysterious fires and carried about as much rascality to the square inch as any in Singapore. And little thought Proddy, when he one day ordered off his premises a doddering, old, spectacled Chow, that into that astute brain of Mrs. Proddy's respected parent there had that very moment been born a scheme for the conversion into a valuable security of his, Proddy's, substantial person.

Well, up the old Singapore strait the mysterious schooner had let go her anchor. In here, between the back of the island and the mainland, the sou'wester came but faintly, and the Raphael H. Semmes, under lee of Tanjong Bela, lay stirless and silent upon an ink mirror. Her forestay showed no "riding light," nor through the tarpaulin blinded skylight could come any glimmer from below, where lounged a frock coated and pot hatted, little man of slender build and mild, reflective eye. There wasn't much to indicate the most reckless desperado the archipelago had ever seen—a deserter from the famous Alabama during her visit to the strait in 1865. Crocky Dixon had since sailed slap through many a law of many a nation, and, though report perhaps exaggerated in asserting that he ought long ago to have adorned a yardarm, it was certain that he hadn't acquired his pleasing appellation for nothing. But now the Crocodile, with a black trichinopoly in its jaws and a bottle of Madeira at its elbow, appeared "a gentle beast enough and of an excellent conscience," a fact which, to those who know the reptile best, boded very ill for somebody.

"At here, master, now come. Very great thing to want to settle at now quick."

Away among the jungle, toward the back of the island, Proddy had a gambler plantation, the overseer whereof was Whang Lo, and Whang Lo's English, as above presented, Proddy understood well enough. But what he didn't understand—as he told the lemon tinted Mrs. Proddy—was what the devil it could be that required his presence in such a hurry! If it was another cooly nabbed by a tiger, he'd wake the authorities up to some purpose! The brutes were breeding on the island like rabbits, and the reward wasn't quarter big enough!

About an hour after Proddy, growling thus, had departed into the darkness, Mrs. Proddy, idly turning over Whang Lo's screed, discovered on the back thereof three tiny Chinese characters, of which—so far had English displaced her hereditary language—she understood but one. That one, however, was enough—it signified "danger"—and in three minutes Mrs. Proddy was on her way to the nearest police tannah.

"Do not come!" translated the old Javani sergeant—"Danger!—the crocodile! The true word, this, on back!" he added promptly. "Bad men make he write the other—this when nobody look, he put, so Missa Proddy no come!" And then, with Mrs. Proddy, the acute old man sent off a peon to the central office. Here she had a short interview with the superintendent, who, in turn, had, 20 minutes later, a short interview with the lieutenant commanding her majesty's gunboat Tickler.

"Oh, that ruffian Dixon!" Lieutenant Dawson said. "Why, we're getting steam up now to go around and see what he's about at the back of the island! What d'ye make of this Proddy business?"

"Case of ransom, I take it! This Dixon's brought off something of the kind before up Penang way. They've nabbed old Proddy at his plantation by this time, I expect, and, if they can, they'll run him over to some den on the Bornean coast and keep him till government or the merchants come down with something handsome. The so called Mrs. Proddy's father is about the biggest scoundrel in Singapore, and I fancy he's in this job with Crocky. If so, the negotiations would be made through him—but, meantime, it's your own part to burst up this pleasing little arrangement!"

Old Proddy—for all his stomach—defended himself like a paladin and had to be knocked on the head with a boat stretcher, so that he knew no more until, peeping through a port at break of day, he saw a misty shore slide slowly past him, as before a gentle air the schooner stood eastward under every stitch she could spread.

"That shore, Proddy, Esq., is Obin island, from which little suckumstance you'll jedge that we're a-standin to the eastward out of this here hell trap of a strait of yours. An, as to what we're a-takin you, Proddy, Esq.,—that you'll find out before you're a powerful deal older!"

"You'll have the Tickler after you before you're much older!" snorted the astounded Proddy.

"Hardly that, Proddy, Esq.! You see there won't be no muss made about you before this evenin, and, as we'll catch the monsoon strong again in the offin your footy little smoke pot of a Tickler will jest hev the hull universal ocean to overhaul for us by tomor— Great Jefferson!" and down went Crocky's jaw, as, glancing through the port, a slender trail of smoke led down his eye to a little white hull just rounding Franklin point.

In three seconds Crocky was on deck—rapid, resolute and cool. "Chased sooner than we expected, lads! No get away now with Proddy, Esq.—but, without him, I guess we'll fix it! Get the dingy over the side—smart, now! We'll send his friends on a little excursion to rescoo him from a wat-tery gre-ave!"

Within three minutes the dingy was adrift, with a bit of canvas set for'ard, and Proddy—lest he should dowse it—lashed to a ringbolt in the stern sheets. The resourceful Crocky, bringing the wind upon his port quarter, stood away due north, between Obin and Tukang.

Aboard the gunboat there was no hesitation. Reluctantly a course was shaped for the little waif, scarce visible now against the sunrise, as faster and faster the freshening wind drove her out to sea, so that by the time the drenched and stiffened Proddy had been hoisted aboard the Tickler the namesake of the Alabama's captain was being warped into a winding offshoot of the Johore river, wherein, with topmasts housed, she lay snug till dark. Then, with the ebb, she dropped down again to sea, and sunrise found her well away into the gulf of Siam.

Mrs. Proddy had her reward in two installments. The first when before high heaven the grateful Proddy confirmed her wifely status; the second when, by the orders of the secret society of which her estimable parent was an ornament, her cook, a member also of the "hoey," mixed something with her morning coffee that speedily made of Proddy the inconsolable widower he is to this day.—Alexander Montgomery in Sydney Bulletin.

CARMEN SYLVA'S HEART.

It Is Very Tender, as a Little Roumanian Girl Has Reason to Know.

Here is a pretty little story about Carmen Sylva: A few years ago, when she was in the zenith of her popularity and health, she visited a small village school incog. and asked permission to put the children through their "paces." The schoolmistress was highly delighted. Although she was unaware of the high rank of her visitor, she guessed from outward appearances that the latter was of no common order. The children did their mistress credit, answering with great promptitude all the simple questions the queen put to them.

Just before leaving the queen noticed one little tot in a far corner of the room, with her tangled head of hair bent over some book. The child was so deeply engrossed in her reading that she took no notice whatever of anybody in the room. The queen asked the reason of her silence. Was she deaf or otherwise afflicted? "Oh, no," was the answer, "but she is stupid and never attends to her studies, but seizes every opportunity to read story books." Carmen Sylva walked quietly up to the little reader, and, putting her hand on the curly head, asked gently what the child was reading, and the latter held up the book to the strange lady. It was "Fairy Stories and Poems," by Carmen Sylva. "And do you like these tales?" asked their author. "Like them, madame? Oh, I love them!"

And Carmen Sylvia took the child in her arms, kissed the little flushed face and departed. About a week afterward the child's aunt, for the little maiden was an orphan, received a letter from the queen offering to educate and bring up the child. The offer was gratefully and thankfully accepted, and now the little one is in one of the best schools in Roumania.

Easily Satisfied.

At the World's fair it was amusing to note the diversity of objects which visitors found the most interesting. One instance was that of an old couple, weary looking and bundle laden, who asked a guard where the Minnesota building could be found. He indicated the direction.

"Is it far?" asked the man.

"Yes, about half a mile from here."

"Oh, dear! Well, come, Mary, we'll put her through now we're here," said the old man, shouldering his heavy bundle.

But the woman was more garrulous. She detained the guard long enough to explain that they lived in Minnesota 12 years and then moved to Ohio. Now they were going back to Minnesota.

"We was goin through Chicago, so we jest stopped off two hours to see the fair. We don't keer much for fairs any way. All we want to see is the Minnesota buildin, an we are bound to see that if it takes half a day!"—Youth's Companion.

Fate.

Long she stood at the window and mused. The rays of the setting sun entangled themselves in her Titian hair or surrounded her glorious height of 5 feet 8 with an aureate halo. Proud, queenly, limbed like a goddess, she was indeed a magnificent specimen of femininity.

"Strange," she muttered. And then a soft, self pitying, half happy smile flitted across her face like a gleam of April sunshine.

"Strange," she said again, "to think that I, who only six short months ago was the quarter back of the Emancipated Maidens' football eleven, should have lost my heart to a man whose collar is a size and a half smaller than mine. But such is fate. And I love him."

Carelessly picking up a 40 pound dumbbell, she tossed it out of the window and across the lot and then sought her boudoir.—Cincinnati Tribune.

Washing Glass.

When possible, a wooden or paper tub should be used in washing glass. A soft silver brush, soft cloths for washing and soft linen towels for wiping also are necessary. Have the water cool enough to bear the hand in comfortably. Make a strong suds with hard soap. The second dish of water should be of the same temperature. Wash each piece carefully, rubbing with the soft cloth; then put in the rinsing water. When four or five pieces have been washed, spread a coarse towel on an old tray and place the glass on this to drain. Wipe the hands dry and then wipe the pieces of glass with a perfectly clean, dry towel. Rub gently to polish.—Detroit News.

SONG.

Swallow, foretelling a rainy day,
Skimming the swaths of the new mown hay
Fly high, fly low,
I'd have you know,
Naught care I of tomorrow's weather,
For my love and I will be together,
And when that my love and I do meet—
"Sweet, sweet!" did you say, little bird? "Sweet, sweet!"

Swallow, foretelling a sunny sky,
Merrily circling the poplars high,
Fly high, fly low;
I'd have you know,
Or skies be sunny, or day be drear,
Naught care I of the morrow's weather;
My love is coming and will be here;
My love and I will be together,
And when that my love and I do meet—
"Sweet," did you say, little bird? "Sweet, sweet!"

THE MENACE TO PROTECTION.

Its Blighting Effect on Labor and Capital.

THE GREAT DECLINE IN BUSINESS.

Comprehensive Reports from All Sections of the Country—There Was 45 Per Cent. Less Wages Earned This Year Than in 1892—No Work for 30 Per Cent. of the People—The Output of the Factories Decreased by 44 Per Cent.—Average Earnings Fell Off $55 Per Head—Billions of Dollars Less Money in Circulation.

A great deal of space is given in a recent issue of The American Economist to a report upon the business conditions of the United States during the first six months of the present year as compared with similar conditions existing between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1892.

They have received reports from 330 different employers of labor who are able to find work for 20,800 fewer hands this year than in 1892. They paid almost $8,000,000 less money for wages and their output, or the amount of business which they transacted was nearly one-half less than during the first six months of 1892.

The average earnings of each wage earner between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1892, were $250. The average earnings of each wage earner during the corresponding six months of this year were $195. Thus there was a loss of $55 to every one of these individuals who were employed.

The analysis of the reports, according to sections of the country, brings the facts learned by the investigation more strikingly home, both to the employer of labor and the employe. The statements presented regarding the conditions that have recently existed in the different sections of the country are also extremely interesting.

The McKinley census that was taken by the American Protective Tariff league in 1892 showed that over $40,000,000 in money had been invested in new or enlarged industries within two years; also, that work had been provided for 37,285 additional hands.

Now we are under the necessity of showing that 20,800 people have been deprived of work in 330 different industries, says The Economist; also that those who were at work have received nearly $8,000,000 less money within six months than they did two years ago. It is further shown that the amount of business was but 56 per cent of that transacted in 1892.

A year ago this month we published the results of our industrial census. This showed that there had been a decrease in business within twelve months of 47.2 per cent., a decrease in wages earned of 60 per cent., and a decrease in the number of persons employed in factories of about 60¼ per cent.

We now have to report a shrinkage of 30 per cent. in the number of persons employed, a loss of 45 per cent. in the amount of wages earned and of 44 per cent. in the output of industrial establishments. A year ago the average decrease was recorded as $2.35 per week in the wages of each employe or $61.10 for the half year's work. We now record a loss of $55 for each person for the first six months' work this year as compared with the money which he earned during the same period in 1892.

If we look back still further and compare the present results with the census of 1890, we find on the basis of the reports that we have received that there were as many as 1,413,550 idle persons in the country this year who were actively employed in 1890. We further find that there was more than $1,000,000,000 less wages earned than in 1892. We further find that the value of the product of the factories has decreased by more than $5,000,000,000; also that $3,000,000,000 less money has been paid for material to be used in manufacture.

We cannot but accept as thoroughly reliable the information we have received and upon which we have based our calculations. It is extremely painful to us to record such a distressful condition of business, which must involve pinching and poverty in most American households.

After these facts have been carefully studied by every reader and thinker in the country we should hardly expect to find one solitary individual to advocate a policy of free trade as against protection to American labor and American industries.

We trust that the verdict of the people next month will be an overwhelming majority against any approach to free trade and for the restoration of proper and adequate protection.

The reason for making an investigation into the business conditions of the United States this year, as compared with 1892, has already been stated in The American Economist—namely, to supply a demand made to the American Protective Tariff league for facts and figures upon the subject. These demands were so numerous that after very deliberate consideration it was decided in the interests of the people to undertake the work, and the result we now publish.

The idea has been to ascertain the number of hands that were employed in the different manufacturing, wholesale and retail concerns throughout the country during the period from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1892, and also during the same months of the present year. We have also endeavored to learn the amount of wages paid to the employes in such establishments during each of the two given periods, and, further, the output or the product of the manufacturing concerns and the per cent. of business done by the wholesale and retail trade.

Replies have been received from thirty-nine different states and territories in the United States. These replies have been carefully compiled and arranged. The compilation was next condensed according to the sections of the country, showing the aggregate results of the information for each section. We then show the per cent. of losses to labor or wages and the loss of output in each section of the country; also the average earnings of labor throughout each section of the country. Further comparisons are made with the McKinley census of 1890 and our industrial census of 1893, that were undertaken by the American Protective Tariff league and published in The American Economist. The last compilation is a comparison of the present conditions with those shown throughout the entire country according to the census of 1890, this following a statement of the losses by industries.

The table gives the number of reports received from each section of the country; the [illegible] number of [illegible] by the parties making those reports during the six months ending June 30, 1892, and 1894, respectively. Then we have the total amount of wages paid by these parties to their employes during the two periods and the proportion that their business of this year bears to the business they transacted two years ago. These figures are as follows:

Section.	Reports.	Hands Employed. 1892.	Hands Employed. 1894.	Wages Paid. 1892.	Wages Paid. 1894.	Output. 1892.	Output. 1894.

Decrease in output of factories	[illegible]
Average earnings per hand in 1892	[illegible]
Average earnings per hand in 1894	[illegible]

The foregoing exhibit shows that 20,800 fewer hands were employed this year in 330 establishments than in 1892. It also shows a decrease of 30 per cent. in the number of persons employed.

A second comparison shows a decrease of $7,868,000 in the amount of wages paid during the first half of this year, as compared with 1892, by the 330 employers of labor. It represents a decrease of 45 per cent. in the amount of wages earned by the wage earners.

Another very interesting fact that we learn is that the wages earned by each employe were $250 per capita for every man, woman and child in 1892; that the earnings of those same people averaged only $195 per capita during the first half of the present year. This was a loss of $55 to every individual wage earner.

LOSSES AND EARNINGS.

In order to arrive at a thorough and ready understanding of the foregoing exhibit we show the per cent. of loss to labor in wages and in the amount of business in each section of the country—thus:

Section.	Losses per cent. Labor.	Losses per cent. Wages.	Losses per cent. Output.	Average earnings. 1892.	Average earnings. 1894.
New England	25	27	30	$200	$190
Middle	40	49	54	223	128
Southern	35	25	56	167	207
Western	20	54	23	237	211
Pacific	10	20	30	196	175

This very interesting tabulation teaches us that there was a loss of 25 per cent. in the employment of labor throughout New England this year as compared with 1892, a loss of 27 per cent. in wages and a loss of 30 per cent. in the output of factories and in the volume of business transacted. It is gratifying to note that in New England the average reduction in wages was only $10 for each individual earner, a better showing than is made in any other part of the country. There also appears to have been more conservativeness in New England, the difference between the smaller amount of labor and the smaller amount of wages paid being but 2 per cent. Another point is that the employment of 25 per cent. fewer hands resulted in a decrease of 30 per cent. in the output, showing, as is explained by several of our correspondents, that it is impossible to obtain the proportionate maximum of work when factories are running only on part time.

In the middle section of the country there was a falling off of 40 per cent. in the number of persons employed, of 49 per cent. in the amount of wages which they earned and 54 per cent. in the output. The average earnings of each employe decreased by $35 per capita.

A peculiar condition appears to have existed in the southern states, where there was a decrease of 35 per cent. in the employment of labor, of only 25 per cent. in wages and of 56 per cent. in the output. The fact that wages were not cut down so much shows that more hands were entirely discharged; the average earnings of those remaining increasing by $40 per capita. It should be remembered that wages generally are much lower in the south than in other sections of the country. Hence it was possibly not found advisable to make such large reductions in the pay rolls as were made elsewhere.

In the western states and territories it would appear that every possible effort had been made to retain wage earners in their positions. The large reduction in wages is accounted for perhaps by the fact that wages are much higher in the western states than they are in New England, the middle or southern states. The loss of employment to the wage earners was 20 per cent., and there was a loss of 54 per cent. in the wages earned and of 23 per cent. in output. The average reduction in the earnings of every individual worker amounted to [illegible], a loss that must have entailed a very serious amount of distress.

Compared with the Census of 1890.

It would seem that we had explored every avenue through which the results of our investigation of the business conditions of the country could be regarded, but it has occurred to us that an interesting comparison may be made with the census returns of 1890, and this we have done, as follows:

	Census, 1890.	Per cent.	Loss in 1894. Total.
Hands employed	4,711,832	30	1,413,550
Wages earned	$2,282,823,265	45	$1,027,270,469
Product value	9,370,107,624	44	4,122,847,355
Cost of material	5,153,868,353	[illegible]	2,266,042,143

According to the census of 1890, there were upward of 4,700,000 persons employed in the different manufacturing industries in the United States, and we have shown that there was an increase in the number of workingmen in 1892. But simply comparing this year's loss of employment with the census returns of 1890 we find that the 30 per cent. of idle people that have been in the country during the first half of this year means a total of 1,413,550 persons out of employment in the United States.

In 1890 the amount of wages earned throughout the country was $2,282,823,265. This year's decrease of 45 per cent. means a natural loss in wages exceeding $1,000,000,000.

The productive value of all manufactories in 1890 exceeded $9,370,000,000. This year's loss of 44 per cent in the output of our factories makes their product this year worth $4,122,847,355 less than in 1890, and by this change the wealth of the country has been lessened.

Where the material used in manufacturing cost more than $5,000,000,000 in 1890, this year it cost less than $3,000,000,000.

Were it possible to institute a comparison with the business of 1893, the losses would be still larger and still more striking. The returns as they are show big figures, much too big for the prosperity of the American people and for the progress of the United States.

This is the second time that we have been called upon to examine into the business conditions of our country within a year. Just twelve months ago, on Oct. 6, 1893, we published our industrial census, showing a loss of $1,200,000 in the weekly wages of the people and a decrease in business of 47 per cent. A year later, today, we show that the conditions since then pointed to a loss of 45 per cent. in the wage earnings of the people, a loss of 30 per cent. in the number of people employed, and a loss of 44 per cent. in the [illegible] trade of the country.

We trust that it will not be necessary to make a third report upon the results of free trade, tariff reform, tariff tinkering or whatever it may be called. We have presented proof enough a hundred times over to show that the United States cannot be prosperous under free trade or anything approaching to it, but that the United States must have protection in order to insure prosperity to the American people.

AN IRON WORKER'S TALE.

What an English-American Who Believes in Protection Says—Lower Tariff Means Lower Wages Sure.

A correspondent writes:

Last spring I had occasion to take a short trip through Ohio. One day as I was busily reading the paper which I had bought at the last station a man came along and dropped into the seat with me. After I had finished my paper I passed it over to my companion, and later we fell to discussing the news. Chief among the items of interest was the latest gossip in regard to the tariff bill, and we soon came to [illegible].

"How are you on the tariff question?" I asked.

"I'm not up on all the ins and outs," was the reply, "but I don't want free trade, or anything like it, [illegible] called tariff for revenue only or by the new fangled name of 'tariff reform.' I wasn't born under the stars and stripes. I didn't have the say in regard to that. I am an Englishman by birth. I know what it is to work under free trade, and I can tell you that free trade is something that workingmen can't afford."

"You find things very different here for the workingman from what they are in England, then?" I asked.

"You can judge for yourself," he replied. "I went to work when I was [illegible] years old for twenty cents a day. That's what children have to do under free trade. I didn't get a chance for much education, as you can see. I learned one thing, though, and that was that labor in America is protected, and so as soon as I grew up I came to America, and I've gotten here as a man the education that I was deprived of in England as a child."

"And your children will have more of a show than you had," I said.

"Well, rather," he replied. "It was as much as I could do to live over there. Here I have been able to raise my children in comfort and to give them a good education."

"You say you found out that labor in America is protected," I said. "The Democrats say that the only thing that isn't protected in America is labor. They say that laborers come in here free, that the Italian works for what he got at home, that the Englishman gets English wages, and so on, and that as those come into direct competition with American laborers, American wages can't be higher than European wages."

"What nonsense that is!" the Englishman broke out. "What do they suppose we come over here for? For the benefit of the sea voyage? If we had to work for the same wages we might as well stay at home. They'd better compare the wages here with wages in England and they'd find out whether labor is protected in America or not."

"Is there much difference between them?" I asked.

"A difference of $2.60 a day to me," he replied. "I am a puddler by trade. I got five shilling, or $1.20 a day in England. I get $3.80 here—over three times as much."

"I have heard a good many Democrats claim," I said, "that the American workman does more in the same length of time than the foreign workman, and that is what makes the difference in wages. Is that so?"

"My $1.20 a day in England was for puddling 3,000 weight of iron; my $3.80 a day here is for puddling 2,780 weight," he replied. "Facts made things look a little the other way, don't they?"

"They do; that's a fact," I said. "And you actually get $3.80 a day here for the same kind of work for which you got only $1.20 in England?" I repeated, for I could hardly grasp the fact that the difference was so great.

"I do that," he replied, "and I do less work in a day here than I had to do in England. The difference in wages isn't so much in all cases, of course," he continued, "but it is always enough to measure the difference between struggling to keep body and soul together and living in decency and comfort."

"The low wages in England may not have been due wholly to free trade," I said.

"Perhaps not," he answered, "but that's neither here nor there just now. The point is that I do get much higher wages in America than a man in England gets for the same work, and if the product of his $1.20 a day labor is brought in here free to compete with the products of my $3.80 a day labor, something has got to give way, and that something will be my wages."

"You think, then, that lowering the tariff on wrought iron would mean a reduction in the wages of iron workers?" I asked.

"I think!" he exclaimed. "I know it. We all know it, and because we know it we sent a man to Washington as the representative of the 6,000 iron workers in my town to plead against any reduction of the tariff on bar or wrought iron. He didn't get much satisfaction, though, and it doesn't look as though we'd get much satisfaction either. I don't suppose it's any use to hope that they'll let the tariff alone on bar and wrought iron," he said with a sigh.

"No, they're sure to make some reduction," I replied.

"And that means lower wages or the closing of the works," he returned. "We'll have to make the best of it. We're not so bad off as a good many. We've had work right along so far, and many a man hasn't had that since Grover Cleveland went into the White House. We'll have to cut off some of our pleasures, perhaps some of our comforts, fall back on our savings, maybe, and wait for 1896 and Republican times again. It isn't as though we'd been working for free trade wages right along. We've got something saved up from the days of McKinleyism. But it's hard to stand this for nearly three years longer," he said grimly. "The only comfort is that we can get rid of this tariff reform congress in the fall. And we'll do it, too," he added with determination.

"This is my station. Good day, sir. I hope we will meet again in better times," and my companion hastily left the car, much to my regret, for there were many more questions I wanted to ask from one whose experience enabled him to speak so positively about the benefits of protection.

The Largest Window.

The largest opalescent glass window in the world is in the new St. Paul's church at Milwaukee. It is what is known as a nave window, the lower half being composed of three immense panels and the upper half of a splendid rose and tracery in a semicircle of brilliancy. This monster window in its extreme measurement is 30 feet and 1 inch in width and exactly 24 feet in height. It is beautifully executed, the subject being the crucifixion—in fact, it is an exact copy of Dore's masterpiece, "Christ Leaving the Praetorium." There are over 200 life size figures represented on this wonderful window.—St. Louis Republic.

THIS IS THE TIME

This is the time for the best endeavors of patriotism. If it shall grasp the great opportunity now presented the Republican party will enter upon a new if not a grander career in the redemption of the land from material and industrial paralysis from the lack of confidence which is the father of panics from that commercial frenzy which brings solvency to the wall and from that unscrupulous quality of demagogy which seeks to carry class against class capital against labor and section against section—From speech of Gen Hastings at League of Clubs Convention

GET out the vote!

TURN the rascals out

THE home market is the best of all markets.

VOTE for protection, prosperity and patriotism

ENGLAND dined and wined Wilson—She was going to hang McKinley on a sour apple tree. See the difference

GROVER did not stop in New York to be registered. He did not like to sit down to write his name as it would have been very hard on his Cleveland badge.

ENGLAND is well pleased with the Wilson-Gorman bill. That ought to satisfy any American citizen that the bill can only work injury to our industries.

MR SINGERLY said at Pittsburg last week in his denunciation of the Democratic leaders(!) "treachery, cowardice, debauchery and debasement." D—n such cowardice.

CLEVELAND considered the Wilson-Gorman bill so bad that he could not, or would not, sign it. Democratic voters, can you support men who will formulate such a bill?

PROTECTION is necessary for the encouragement of both capital and labor. It enables the workingman to live independently, and at the same time encourages the liberal investment of capital by the men who own it.

MCKINLEY, the author of the protective tariff bill of 1890, is in demand all over America. Prof Wilson, the advocate of free trade, is wanted only in Europe. What man is there in America who cannot understand the meaning of this? Charity begins at home.

PAY no attention to the man who just before election is in the habit of issuing campaign lies against any candidate with whom he may have an imaginary grievance. Look out for him. This is his opportunity. Remember that such people always get in their evil work when there is no opportunity for a reply

DO NOT fail to give George Griffiths a vote, the man who, when a boy, was too young to enter the army, yet worked his way into the service and bared his breast to the bullets of the enemy of our country. He is worthy of your support. Kane will give him a rousing majority, and we hope to see the rest of the county fall into line. He is a laboring man and knows their needs.

OUR down town neighbor seems anxious to fire the A. P. A. business in this campaign. In this we are not surprised, as it is customary in these times for Democrats to change their minds. A few months ago, when our postoffice changed hands, his utterances were of a character that would accord exactly with those of that organization which he would have his readers believe he now condemns.

DEMOCRATIC MENAGERIE.

D. B. Hill, who in the Senate scored the Wilson bill and said it meant the reduction of American wages to a European standard. At the New York state convention he said the bill was so fair that no manufacturer would have any excuse whatever for reducing the wages of his employes. Trying to ride two horses going in different directions. See!

Prof Wilson, who told the English that the Democratic party had torn down the fences of protection that the Republican party had erected who said that he hoped the House would never adjourn until sugar was placed on the free list, and three days afterwards votes to give the sugar trust forty millions that will come out of the poor man

Dan Lockwood, the Democratic candidate for Lieut. Governor of New York, who worked to keep the McKinley tariff on the cement manufactured by his mills, but on other goods voted to tear down the fences of protection erected by the Republican party

Boss Croker, of New York, who grew wealthy as the leader of Tammany at one time, receiving ten thousand dollars from the mayor of New York city

Senator McPherson, of New Jersey, who bought sugar stock through his cook, and thus increased his worldly store

Boss McKane, who is languishing in Sing Sing, for trying to increase the Democratic vote at Gravesend, N Y

Senator Murphy, who tried to save Bat Shea, the murderer of Mr Ross, at Troy, last February

Tammany Tiger that is trembling on its last legs, owing to the Lexow investigating committee

Pat Divver, the police justice, who disgraced himself by engaging in a bar-room fight.

Senator Gorman, who formulated the $40 000,000 sugar steal

Maynard the disgraced judge who stole the New York Senate

Senator Brice who assisted in the $40 000 000 sugar steal

Candidate Singerly Ringsters, roosters and ruffians.

Grover Cleveland Party perfidy and dishonor

The above is a fine collection of Democratic leaders We could give more but think this enough for the present Voters look it over carefully and see what kind of men are engaged in conducting the affairs of this country

EDWARD R SHERMAN our candidate for coroner is a careful business man of unquestionable reputation besides being an old veteran of the late war and we can see no reason why he should not receive the unanimous support of the Republicans of McKean county It may be that many of our readers are not personally acquainted with Mr Sherman, but his reputation at home is ably portrayed in the following item which we clip from the Star of Tuesday "Edward R Sherman the Republican candidate for coroner, is a resident of Bradford and it is therefore with full knowledge that we commend him to the favorable notice of the electors of McKean county Mr Sherman is a substantial man of affairs, of recognized integrity and standing He has the saving grace of common sense, is an eminently practical and level headed citizen who will be the same courteous gentleman after election and will serve the county in the responsible office of coroner with fidelity and intelligence The coroner has the widest discretionary latitude of any county officer and the expenses of the county are increased or curtailed as he discharges his duties with judgment or solely with a view to his own advantage Of late years the coroner has had considerable business, and it is essential that the office be filled by a citizen of Mr Sherman's stamp. He is eminently qualified and they who know him can vouch for the truth of the statement that no objection of a personal nature can be urged against him Although a Republican sound to the core, Mr Sherman is liberal in his views and is singularly free from narrow prejudices Although he is a candidate for what is popularly regarded as a minor office, we look for a big vote for Mr Sherman next Tuesday"

DID you ever think that the value of the products of the industries in this great Keystone State is three times as much as that of all the southern States combined! Do our readers realize that the tariff of 1894 has had the effect of paralyzing almost every industry in the State, thereby throwing hosts of laboring men out of work, and reducing them to penury and want! Many of our farmers complain that they have little or no sale for their products. This is one of the results of the circumstances which causes depression in business centers. When men have no work, they have no money to buy with, and consequently the farmer is robbed of his profits in the home market. If our farmers in Pennsylvania want to benefit themselves they must support the party or policy which favors the enactment of such laws as will benefit the wage-earner. Vote the Republican ticket, which is a vote for protection to the American home and the American farm.

THE suggestion started by the MINER that a Northwestern Editorial Association be organized has met with universal approval, and there seems to be a desire on the part of most of our exchanges to hold the initial meeting at Warren; which seems to be about as central a point as can be found. We trust that as soon as practicable after elections are over the meeting will be called and the association organized.

HENSEL said at Williamsport last Saturday "that the wheels of industry began to revolve the instant a Democratic President affixed his signature to a Democratic tariff bill." Great guns! When did Cleveland sign the Wilson-Gorman-party-perfidy-and-dishonor bill. No effort for the Democratic leaders to lie.

HERMAN H. NORTH.

The Bradford Star pays the following tribute to the life and character of Hon. H. H. North, our candidate for Representative:

"Herman H. North, candidate for Representative in the General Assembly, is our townsman. The people of Bradford know him. He has been coming and going among us for years. Nothing is concealed. He is a square man, a true man. Herman H North was never known to do a mean thing or an underhanded thing He stands four square to every wind that blows, upright and honest He is a man of culture and ability He has been tried in the crucible of public trust and assays one hundred fine. In the Legislature he served his constituents with fidelity, industry and signal ability For a first termer he made a remarkably distinct impress upon the public mind and early won recognition as one of the ablest and most useful members of the House His re-election will be a deserved tribute to a capable and trustworthy public servant and will reflect credit upon the community The citizens of Bradford ought to be foremost in setting the example by casting a rousing vote for North. The vote in this city ought to be practically unanimous, and it will be if each man who is entitled to vote goes to the polls and votes as he would like to vote if he could emancipate himself from the spell of the fetich of political nomenclature"

FARMERS NOT IN IT.

If Senator Hill is wise he will make a note in his memorandum book "Never challenge McKinley again." The Senator in an unguarded moment challenged the great Protectionist to name an article which the new Tariff had not left adequately protected McKinley, for a starter, suggested wool The Senator, replying in his speech at Watertown, said he did not mean wool McKinley also mentioned all agricultural products." The Senator said he did not mean agricultural products. What he wanted, he said, was for Gov McKinley to name some manufactured article which had not been properly protected McKinley had named glassware, and the Senator's reply was that he knew glassware had been protected enough He did not say how he knew it Perhaps he judged by the fact that wages in the glass works have been reduced about 25 per cent which is close to the average reduction in duties on glassware under the new law

But whether the Senator is right or not in the matter of glass is of small importance compared with the admission which he made. Apparently he is only claiming for the new tariff that it protects manufactured articles. He acknowledges that it does not protect agricultural products. [illegible] Buffalo Express

AMERICAN PROTECTION

Those who loved their country in the trying times from 1861 to 1865 came to its rescue with bullets. There is just as much need now for home voters as there was for soldiers in 1861 Our industries are assailed by the mistaken ideas of the party in power Let every voter who loves his country vote to cleanse the Augean Stables at Washington by sending a solid Republican delegation from this state

HUSBAND and wife were listening to McKinley's speech in Music Hall Buffalo, last Thursday night, when the Governor said "How many working men in the city of Buffalo to night are receiving the same wages they got in 1892?" The wife gave her husband a dig in the ribs and said "How is that John?" McKinley continued "They say business has resumed but whatever resumption has taken place has been on lower conditions and on lower wages to labor" Wife says, "How is that, John?" McKinley continued, "Vice President Stevenson said the other day that $90 now would buy as much as $100 would in 1892, but where are the $90?" The wife said, "How is that, John?" At the end of the speech, although John had always been a staunch Democrat, he told his wife that hereafter he would vote the Republican ticket. This we got from an eye witness.

IN speaking of majorities, the Bradford Star says "But the city of Bradford has an additional incentive to exertion in behalf of the local ticket, Herman H North, candidate for representative in the general assembly Bradford certainly has a right to feel proud of her honored citizen as a candidate, but McKean county is not going to stand back and let the city of Bradford do all for North. The balance of the county desire the privilege of assisting in rolling up the largest Republican vote ever cast in this county for the whole ticket. There is not a man on the ticket but what it will be a credit for any man to vote for. Be sure to mark a cross at top of first column.

IT seems our esteemed contemporary cannot find anything to harp upon but the fact of our coming into McKean county, but as that is not political argument and will not be of interest to our readers, we will drop the matter, leaving it to the judgment of the people to say if our advent here was not fully as respectable as that of our down town neighbor

THIS county being Republican generally, it naturally has the result of making Republicans feel easy about voting. This should not be. This year we want every Republican to vote and thus give an emphatic reply to the Democratic free trade theory which has already done harm enough. Get out the vote.

CANDIDATE SINGERLY said in his speech at Williamsport on Saturday last, "that in some portions of the State factories are running night and day, and the men are threatening to strike because they have too much work to do." Mr Lindsley, here is another reason for not supporting this modern Ananias.

SENATOR MILLS, of Texas, said that the Wilson-Gorman bill would not prove satisfactory to one thousand people in the United States. Are you one of the thousand? And yet Democratic orators ask you to support the bill.

REPUBLICANS should see that the full vote is out this year.

SPARE no pains to get out the full Republican vote next Tuesday.

A Tale of the Wind.

There's a tidal wave a-coming,
Grover C., Grover C.!
It's in the air a-humming,
Woe for thee.
Don't you hear the voters tell?
Listen to the tale they tell
That your party's going to ——,
Grover C.

QUESTIONS FOR WORKINGMEN.

Before they vote on the 6th of November next workingmen should ask themselves the following questions and reflect on the answers which their own experience will furnish

Has your employment been as steady as it was under Republican rule?

Is the prospect as encouraging as it was before the protective laws passed under the administration of Mr Harrison were menaced by the Wilson bill?

Are the luxuries of life as easy to get as they formerly were?

Are you saving money nowadays?

Do you believe a perpetuation of the Democratic policy and its further development will be beneficial to you and your family?

THE Czar of all the Russias died at Livadia at 1 30 p m yesterday at the age of 49 years. His father was slain by the Nihilists in 1881 In 1866 he married Mary Fredricka, daughter of King Christian of Denmark who is a sister of the Princess of Wales. For years he lived in continual fear of assassination. The crown Prince Nicholas should be the succeeding Czar, but owing to his physical condition a regency may be established

USE all your best efforts to get out the vote Our early fathers made great sacrifices in order that we might enjoy the blessings of prosperity and surely we should be willing to use our best endeavors to rid the country of a party whose every effort has been to reduce the prosperous times we have enjoyed to a condition of penury and want Get out the vote

IT is the duty of every Republican to make it a point to be at the polls as early as possible Do your work in the morning and then you will have time to see that others discharge their duty The use of the ballot is the highest and noblest work that the constitution gives us and every man should use it this year for the good of his country and himself Cast your ballot for protection prosperity and patriotism

KEEP religion out of politics Any one who introduces the question of religion into a political discussion is nothing less than a disturber of the peace, and only does himself an injury as well as others It is like a two edged sword cutting both ways

IT would be very interesting reading matter to hear D B Hill's private opinion of one Grover Cleveland publicly expressed

THE first fruit of the repeal of the federal election law was the murder of William Ross at Troy N Y last February by Bat Shea.

IF the Democrats could not frame a tariff bill to suit themselves they are not fit to govern Turn them out

THE President issued a proclamation of thanks It must have been from the fact that he escaped from New York

CATARRHAL DYSPEPSIA

A Discouraged Invalid Restored to Health and Happiness

Catarrh of the stomach causes a condition known as dyspepsia or indigestion It usually results from catarrh in the throat but sometimes occurs in people who never had catarrh elsewhere The symptoms of dyspepsia are liver complaint biliousness sour stomach, water brash bloating after eating constipation, piles, and in many cases low spirits dizzy head, sympathetic heart palpitation pain indigestion, and looseness of the bowels Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin taken according to directions on the bottle, will cure every one The following is a specimen of letters received from patients

O S McQuillan Spring Hill Iowa writes, "Four years ago last fall my stomach without any previous warning, refused to perform its functions and I soon lost strength During this time food was forced through my stomach by using cathartics. With flesh wasted away, strength exhausted so that it took all my energy to even get into a bath tub, hopes all gone I began to take Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin, following free advice which Dr Hartman gave me In a short time I could eat nourishing food, and the piles, kidney trouble and constipation disappeared. Flesh, strength and a splendid appetite returned, and I went to work."

LITERARY NOTES.

The November number of Scribner's Magazine has for its leading article one of especially timely interest on "Election Night in a Newspaper Office" written by Julian Ralph, one of the New York Sun's most valued special correspondents and a newspaper man of wide experience He describes, with his well known vividness and truth the exacting and laborious work done by the staff of a metropolitan newspaper at such a time, and gives a realistic impression of the excitement and rush attending the analyses and summarizing of the immense volume of news received during election night. The familiar scenes in front of the office bulletin the cheering crowds and the humorous aspects of all are drawn with a perfect knowledge and active sympathy It is fully illustrated with drawings by B. West Clinedinst. Besides the above will be found an unusual amount of good reading matter, consisting of stories and many bright papers of unusual interest.

The Russian cowboy is what Poultney Bigelow calls the Cossack in Harper's Magazine for November. In Mr. Bigelow's opinion, the Cossack will not again figure heavily in European warfare. The most picturesque of the Czar's soldiers is disappearing, like the cowboy, under the combined influence of discipline and advancing civilization.

HOW IS IT?

The well-intentioned citizen who has not yet decided how to vote at the coming election may well consider his ground I hope he will inquire of himself how he likes the conditions since the Republican party has gone out of power How has it been with him individually? Has he had steady employment? Is he paid the old Republican wage rate? Does he find the cost of living cheaper and the ability to meet that cost better? Is his business prosperous? Is he as contented and confident of the future as before? When he has answered to himself these vital questions let him on his way to the polls, pass the silent mill the cold furnace the broken bank the deserted forge, let him pass by poverty and want, business paralyzed and confidence vanished and then record his judgment of the responsibility for these conditions and his hope for the future in the ballot which he places in the box—From speech of Gen Hastings at the League Clubs Convention

Tired, Weak, Nervous Could Not Sleep.

—J. B. Abbey and wife are receiving the congratulations of their friends over the birth of a son, which put in an appearance on Oct. 27th.

—A heading factory located here would be a paying investment. We hope some enterprising business man may be induced to locate at this place.

—The Jour de L'an Club will give their second grand ball on New Year's night. Kuhn's orchestra, of Buffalo, has been engaged to furnish the music.

—Mr. North regretted very much not being able to attend the monument meeting in the court house, but was prevented by the illness of his esteemed wife.

—This is our last issue before election, and we warn our readers to beware of the man who does all his best work when no chance is afforded to reply; namely, the campaign liar.

—Rabbi Weil, of Bradford, will soon retire from the charge of the Beth Zion Hebrew Reformed congregation, at the request of the latter, and will devote his time to lecturing.

—Chet King's wooden cow, at Port Allegany, is attracting almost as much attention as Mrs. O'Leary's cow that kicked over the lamp that burned a good share of Chicago in 1871.

—A fine program consisting of reading, music and drills, will be presented at the opera house on Tuesday evening, Nov. 6. You are requested to be present. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

—We are glad to note the tone of satisfied prosperity which burst forth in the columns of our down-town neighbor's paper last week. He and his party make the same assumption.

—We were informed by Judge Olmsted Tuesday that a new gas well had been drilled on the Fay property, near the Mallery & Rathbone well, that was proving to be a gusher.

—Owing to a mistake made by the transcribing clerk at Harrisburg no marriage licenses will be necessary until Oct. 1, 1895, so patronize your home ministers and justices of the peace.

—Complaint has come to us that the MINER does not regularly reach some of our subscribers at East Smethport. We hope this will not occur again or we will be compelled to make inquiry.

—A kindling wood factory would pay here, instead of sending the wood away to be manufactured at some other place. It would give employment to a great many of our idle boys and girls.

—Rick Donovan has returned from a trip through New York State and reports the political situation as being so badly mixed that there is but little chance for his prototype, David B. Hill.—Kane Republican.

—L. W. Mason lost a valuable horse the fore part of this week. He had just returned from Bradford, when the horse was taken sick and died. The horse was recently purchased from Walter Grubb, and was a fine driver.

—The Coudersport and Wellsboro railroad has been merged with the Buffalo and Susquehanna. M. E. Olmsted is president, F. H. Goodyear chairman of the board, and Charles W. Goodyear general manager.—Renovo News.

—Hon. R. G. Horr, of New York, and Hon. M. D. Harter, of Ohio, will meet at Coudersport on Thursday, Nov. 29, Thanksgiving night, to discuss the question of protection vs. free trade. Do not fail to go and hear these able debaters.

—Billy Taylor, the colored man who works for Frank Fowler, shot himself in the head on Tuesday at noon at his home on School street. The physicians do not think the action will result seriously. The cause is attributed to drink.—Record.

—We are in receipt of an invitation to attend the fifth anniversary and graduating exercises of Caton's National Business College, at Music Hall, Buffalo, Thursday evening, Nov. 8. Read their ad. of last week. Will not appear again.

—Smethport is organizing an athletic club and the prospects of a large membership are very good. When the club is organized some interesting glove contests may be looked for. Smethport young men are fond of the manly art of self defense. —Era.

—There is not a man on the Republican ticket from Governor down to jury commissioner but what is well worthy of your support. Place a cross in the circle at top of first column and you have done credit to yourself, your neighbor and country.

—F. G. Lindholm & Co., have changed their display of goods in their windows several times lately, and arrange them in such a tasty manner that our people are constantly on the watch for new attractions at this thriving establishment. They [illegible].

—There is a fine opening [illegible] that be established here. Let some enterprising man locate here, and we will assure him success.

—The athletic club recently organized in this town are arranging for the purchase of a lot on which to erect a club house and gymnasium. We are glad to see the interest our young men are taking in this matter and hope their efforts may be crowned with success.

—Billy Black, in digging up the drain across Main street, at Burbank's corner, found that when the sewer pipe was laid down Main street, the parties laying it had cut a hole through the drain pipe that crosses the street at that point and laid the sewer, thus plugging up the cross pipe entirely.

—Messrs. North and Griffiths should receive the support of all parties, irrespective of their politics, as they are both gentlemen of known ability, and are creditable representatives of the best element of McKean county. Vote for North and Griffith and the whole Republican ticket.

—Read the new advertisement of the Olean Music Co. in another column. Their branch store in Smethport is managed by Mr. A. D. Doyle, who will take great pains in showing you the instruments in stock or supplying you with anything in their line of goods. Call and see for yourself.

—Let us have a board of trade. All our surrounding towns have energetic boards of trade, and there is no reason in the world why our town should not organize one, and make an effort to get several paying industries located here. Let some of our hustling young business men make a start on this line.

—At the McIntyre concert on Nov. 15, in addition to the celebrated violinist, Mr. Willard Welhe, Mr. Richard Fricke, the 'cellist of the Buffalo orchestra, has also been engaged. There will be a number of trios for piano, violin and 'cello. It is a tribute to the musical taste and talent of our town to present a concert of this high order.

—Edward R. Sherman, the old veteran who gave the best years of his life in defense of his country, should receive the support not only of every old soldier, but of all men who love their country and its heroes. A vote for Sherman will be a notice to Hoke Smith that McKean county opposes his efforts to banish the pensioner from his just reward.

—We have heard about ripe strawberries, ripe raspberries and trees with apple blossoms on at this season of the year, but a gentleman and lady on King street received a young apple Monday night that they would not exchange for all the berries and blossoms in the universe—a bright little girl baby. The MINER extends congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John Apple.

—Suit has been brought by City Solicitor Brown against the bondsmen of Ex-City Treasurer Lain to recover $3,000 uncollected taxes. The bondsmen are Messrs. C. C. Melvin, M. W. Wagner and E. A. Boyne. The sum above given represents taxes which Mr. Lain failed to collect while treasurer of the city and the councils by resolution recently instructed the city solicitor to proceed against the bondsmen.—Era.

—Smethport is organizing an athletic club. Is it possible that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight is to take place there?—Star. The principal difficulty at present is in getting a building large enough for the club. Some want the Tubular Car Works moved here for that purpose, while others who have their hearts set on buying J. B. Richardson, say that it would be real mean to deprive Bradford of all its hobbies.

—Fire was discovered in the brick block of J. H. Grady, at Kane, last Friday morning. The building was occupied by Bissell Bros., grocers, and James Kinney, billiard room and barber shop, first floor, and by Mr. Grady, as a residence, on the second floor. The flames were extinguished before doing much damage. Most of the goods were removed, and the balance was more or less injured by water. Mr. Grady's loss on the building and household goods is estimated to be about $2,000; no insurance.

—The masquerade ball given last evening was a decided success with one exception. Will Voorhees, while dancing, slipped and fell, breaking the large bone in his left leg just above the ankle. He was taken to Dr. Clark's office where the fracture was reduced after which he was taken home. A full account of the dance will be given next week.

—An exchange says that it is the local paper that advertises your business, your schools, your churches, your societies, sympathizes with you in your affliction, and rejoices in your prosperity. In short it is your local paper that mentions the thousand and one items in which you are interested during the year, and which you do not find in the city papers. Support your home paper.

—Perhaps this glittering beam of prosperity that our down town Democratic friend sees is caused by the reflection of the lights from Gifford's mills that have been running night and day in order to clear the streams of the Extract Co.'s logs so that Mr. Walnman, of Eldred, can drive his logs. It is clearly evident that any trifling matter will encourage a Democrat this year, and make him think that times are what they used to be under Republican laws.

—The employes of the Western New York and Pennsylvania railway, held a meeting last Tuesday night to decide what action should be taken towards securing a restoration of the ten per cent. reduction which was made seven months ago. The men decided not to strike, but to seek the restoration by bringing suit in the courts. It was unanimously decided that the men should sue the road on this proposition. The men claim to have a precedent in the case of the Omaha and St. Louis railway, which road was compelled by the courts to restore a reduction.

—Editor Olson of the Smethport MINER made a pleasant call at the Era office Wednesday. Mr. Olson is the originator of a project to form an association of editors in Northwestern Pennsylvania and the present indications are that the scheme will be a success. Brother Olson is hereby nominated for the position of president of the new association.—Era. We make our humble acknowledgement to Mr. Butler, of the Era, the tall pine of the Tuna, for the kindly mention of our name as president of the Northwestern newspaper association, but respectfully decline the honor and suggest that the mantle fall upon shoulders more worthy to preside, and that person is the able editor of the Oil City Derrick, P. C. Boyle. No better selection could be made.

—F. H. [illegible], [illegible] and now President of the famous B. & S. R. R. [illegible] Pursuant to this settlement he has secured the services of Mr. W. D. Huntington now acting as Agent and Dispatcher at Larabee, Pa. Mr. Huntington has been called to fill the highly responsible position of Chief Train Dispatcher on the B. & S. R. R. He can feel assured that the best wishes of his many friends will accompany him to this new field of labor and responsibility. Mr. G. Beaver has been appointed to fill the position made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Huntington.

Death of F. G. Helme.

News reached here on Wednesday that F. G. Helme, after an illness of only a few hours, had died at Dubois on Tuesday afternoon at 4:30. His illness is reported to have been caused by an over-indulgence in chestnuts, resulting in inflamation of the bowels. Mr. Helme was the representative of J. & F. B. Garrett, paper dealers, Syracuse, N. Y. Mr. Helme was one of those men whom everybody liked, being of a genial disposition, and was possessed of a business integrity which gave him the confidence of all men. Frank was always a welcome caller at the MINER office, where his regular visits will be greatly missed. He was a member of the Masonic and Maccabee orders, the members of which attended him during his last hours. He leaves a wife and a little daughter to mourn the loss of a kind husband and loving father.

From Medicine to Manufacturing.

Dr. R. J. Sharp, of Lakewood, has purchased one-half interest in the Crescent Table company, C. A. Lawson retiring from the firm. The doctor will at once retire from the practice of medicine and take charge of the office. It is said that the factory will run full force and full time from now on, employing from 15 to 20 men. Success to the doctor and the C. T. Co.—Jamestown Journal.

We are glad to see our esteemed friend has thrown away his bone saw and taken up a wood saw. The wood saw does not inflict so much pain and is less injurious. Success to the new firm.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at F. R. Foster's and A. B. Armstrong & Co.'s drug stores.

A Wonderful Conqueror.

No disease is more common among the people than scrofula. Handed down from generation to generation, it is found in nearly every family, in some form. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in swellings in the neck or goitre, or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane it may be known as catarrh, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is, the prime cause of consumption.

In whatever form scrofula may manifest itself, Hood's Sarsaparilla is its inveterate foe and conqueror. This medicine has such powerful alterative and vitalizing effect upon the blood that every trace of impurity is expelled, and the blood is made rich, pure and healthy.

G. A. R. Monument Meeting.

Tuesday evening, 30th ult., a large and appreciative audience gathered at the court house to celebrate the release from indebtedness of the monument, erected nine years ago to the memory of the heroes who gave their lives that their country might live. Judge Morrison presided, and the meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock. Exercises were opened by music by the Port Allegany Cornet Band, which rendered a difficult piece of music in a very appreciative manner, and right here we wish to state that this band has only existed as an organization for three short months, and eight of the fourteen members had never before attempted to play a horn. Both time and harmony were perfect, and their gentlemanly deportment during their brief stay won for them many admiring friends.

The chairman invited several of the best looking and most eloquent gentlemen upon the stand. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Halliwell, followed by a song by the Smethport Glee Club which was most delightfully rendered, their eight well trained voices furnishing a source of pleasure which was long and loudly applauded. Judge Morrison then gave a short history of the monument, its cost, etc.; giving to the citizens of McKean county, and particularly the school children, their due share of praise for money contributed toward wiping out the debt which had so long been felt a disgrace to the county. Hon. B. D. Hamlin was then introduced, who gave a short but effective speech, which was highly appreciated. He was followed by R. B. Stone, Eugene Mullin and J. M. McClure, of Bradford; Supt. Eckels, of Smethport; Capt. Cummings, of Tidioute; Capt. Chapman, of Bradford, and last but not least, the Rev. Mr. Halliwell, interspersed with music by band and glee club. Space forbids us giving in detail the addresses of these eloquent speakers. Suffice to say that each and every one was well rendered and listened to with rapt attention. Judge Morrison, after thanking the audience for their attendance and close attention to the exercises, invited them in behalf of the W. R. C. to a banquet in the G. A. R. hall, which was greeted with cheers by the assembled veterans and their families. At the hall the tables were almost breaking down with their loads of the good things of life, which were enjoyed to the utmost by all who partook thereof.

Interesting News From Various Localities Picked up by Our Regular Correspondents.

PORT ALLEGANY.

Col. J. P. Sanford, of Chicago, delivered a lecture in the Port Allegany opera house on Saturday evening last which was the greatest treat of the season. His subject was "Old Times and the New," and as the Colonel has traveled around the world three times, he knew whereof he spoke, and for one hour and forty minutes he held his audience spell bound. His bursts of eloquence were simply sublime, while his funny sayings kept everybody in the best of humor. Should he ever visit us again, it would be necessary to hold the meeting in the public square, as there is not a building in town that would begin to hold his admiring friends.

The Coryville nine drove over Saturday last and crossed bats with our local team. But five innings were played, when the would be champions threw up the sponge and retired from the diamond fully convinced that they were "not in it," so to speak. The score stood 35 to 5, in favor of the Port Allegany nine.

S. Dreches has leased the building on the corner of Mill and Main St., now occupied by T. B. Day, and will take possession Jan. 1st 1895. T. B. Day will remove his stock of dry goods and groceries to the Hogarth building on Main street.

H. A. Lillibridge has leased his farm on Lillibridge Creek to L. C. Horton for the term of five years. Mr. Horton has secured a prize in the transaction, as the said farm is one of the very best in McKean county.

A. N. Lillibridge is giving farming considerable attention this fall. Having plowed nearly seventy-five acres, he will sow a large proportion of it to winter wheat and rye.

H. S. Davidson is pushing the work on his Mill Street building rapidly forward. He expects to have it ready for occupancy by the 20th of November.

Politics are a drug on the market here. The Republicans feel confident of victory and the Democrats don't seem to care a continental who wins.

The caving in of the ovens at the Dalrymple mill necessitated a shut down of a few days for repairs. The mill was started again last Saturday.

The Rev. A. B. Mechura, of Coudersport, was in town Saturday morning en route for Galeton, where he spent the Sabbath.

Miss Almeda Larrabee returned last Saturday from a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. P. G. Kendall, of Coudersport.

Mrs. O. L. Snyder, of Buffalo, is spending a few days in town with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Lillibridge.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Laymon returned from their trip in eastern New York on Thursday last.

The genial Chet King, of the Sartwell house, has a fine "Jersey cow" which he desires to sell.

Mrs. S. J. Leighton, of Olean, is in town, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Connolly.

E. B. Dolley is making repairs upon his house on Mill street now occupied by P. Brider.

James Ryan of Coudersport, was gyrating among our friends in town on Saturday.

Pat Kibby and Miss Maggie Kibby visited friends in Bradford one day last week.

John Green is spending a few days on his farm near Addison, N. Y.

[illegible] R. H. Camp is spending a few days with relatives in Buffalo.

R. G. [illegible] had business at Coudersport on Thursday last.

HIS POPULARITY INCREASES.

As General D H Hasting's record as a business man and a big hearted social gentleman become better known his popularity as a candidate increases It is an injustice as well as a piece of ingratitude for workingmen to jump at the conclusion that because General Hastings has helped to develop the bituminous coal industry in Pennsylvania that he is necessarily an enemy of the coal miner The truth is that the most ardent and sincere friends of the miners, and who have sacrificed much in the cause of organization who know Mr Hastings, are his warmest friends and supporters.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

FOOLING THE VETERANS.

A Bold Effort to Hold Old Soldiers Who Have Been Turning from the Democratic Party

Signs are not wanting that the pension office at Washington is being used lately to assist a number of Democratic candidates for congress by holding out promises of early settlement of the claims of old soldiers who have for months appealed in vain for a first consideration of their cases. An evidence of the fact is presented by a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press writing from Carlisle Pa., a few days ago. The correspondent says

Sir Last Saturday's Press contained information of the frantic efforts of Indiana Democratic politicians to "round up" the soldier vote of that state. The fact that the statement was considered of interest by The Press urges the writer to call attention to similar methods being employed to strengthen the weak candidacy of P H Strubinger, the congressional nominee of the Democrats of the Nineteenth district.

Soon after the party nominations were made the Democratic workers, alarmed at the lack of enthusiasm with which the nomination of Strubinger was received, and knowing particularly the disaffection of soldiers to the whole ticket in Cumberland county quietly notified all those having claims for pension pending (of which there are many in this locality), if they would leave the numbers of their claims at headquarters of the county chairman their interests might be materially advanced. As was to be expected, many belated and worthy claimants of the government's provided bounty eagerly sought the Democratic headquarters and presented to County Chairman McCrea the numbers of their claims, to be forwarded to Washington, and through this means receive special attention.

A number of replies have already been received by the intended dupes, and the short space of time required to receive them shows plainly that the pension authorities are on the alert. In fact, the promptness has excited suspicion, and one old vet, who has been an applicant for pension over twenty years, remarked that he "never got a reply so quick," and that "politics was a good agent."

The replies from the pension office are addressed to "Hon. P. H. Strubinger, Abbottstown, Pa.," and by him forwarded to W. H. McCrea, Carlisle, Pa., who turns them over to the claimants as they arrive.

The following is one among several of the replies received. It is verbatim, except the name of the applicant is omitted.

The forms are printed and differ but none are discouraging to the applicant

WASHINGTON Sept — 1894

Sir Replying to communication of recent date you are advised that the above entitled claim has been submitted to the board of review for final action and that no unnecessary delay will ensue in its adjudication

Should it be found that additional evidence is required to complete the claim a proper call for such testimony will promptly issue. Very respectfully,

(Signed) D I MURPHY,
First Deputy Commissioner

Name of Claimant.
as Hon P H STRUBINGER,
Abbottstown Pa.

If there is anything in this you can use you may rely upon it being correct I am an ex soldier and may say an ex Democrat also, for I will not support the ticket after the un American exhibition the present administration has given us. HANCOCK.

Carlisle, Pa. Oct. 8, 1894

The old soldiers will not be victimized by any scheme of this character They are too intelligent and have too much regard for their honor which has only been questioned by Democrats, and the few among them who have heretofore voted the Democratic ticket will not vote that way this year Their minds are made up and the pension office scheme to change them will not work.

Costly Pipes.

The Turkish hookah and the Persian nargile are the most magnificent and expensive of all pipes.

The tubes through which the smoke is drawn are made of leather covered with velvet, or with gold and silver among the very wealthy, richly ornamented with precious stones, while the receptacle for the water is usually formed of glass handsomely cut, or engraved and gilt, or of precious metals decorated with enamels.

The liquid in this bowl is frequently rosewater or other delicately perfumed distillation, adding considerably to the fragrance of the smoke. The tobacco is lighted in a receptacle at the summit of the pipe, which is also formed of gold or silver and studded with magnificent diamonds and other gems. The tubes vary in length from five to ten yards, and the whole paraphernalia is often borne behind a nobleman on horseback, so that by this means he can continue his smoke as the inclination takes him.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Curious Bird.

Jan Dobamer, a Viennese book agent, discovered a curious bird in the Australian bush, where he has been traveling in the interests of his employers. The curious creature resembles a guinea hen in size and shape. At the bottom of the lower bill of the female is a large pouch, something like that of the pelican. It is not used as a storage reservoir for food, but a place of refuge for the young when frightened.
